“Kill”:

Similar to the conclusion made in the last assignment, Democrats focus on “Floyd”’s event a lot. And it can be noticed from the numbers that they start “killing” based on that.

Republicans, on the other hand, also mentioned “Floyd”’s event, but they focus more on “baby” and probably “terrorism”. This observation could lead to the conclusion about which topic either party focuses the most on.

“Reducing”: Both parties mentioned “emission”, which means it must be a critical issue; but having Democrats mentioned more than 3 times the Republicans mentioned it showed that Democrats cared more about that. And based on the topics, it can be noticed that Republicans care about the economy, while Democrats care about pollution, violence and some economy.

“Increasing”: Similar to the “Reducing” section, the topics cared the most can also be viewed from the outputs: Republicans - economy, and Democrats - safety.

This graph is for “nsubj”. It’s interesting to see that “we” and “it” are used the same amounts. What’s more, from this graph, it can also be seen the topics each party focuses on. Republican: reduce some legislation stuff, and increase defense toward China & Russia; Democrat: reduce “sentence” and rate/bill is increasing.
